Reaction Kinetics and Mechanism

Mechanism describes the reaction pathway through which the reactants convert to products. Several methods are used to understand the mechanism of a reaction. These are (i) ascertaining the stoichiometry of a reaction, (ii) isolation of intermediate, (iii) study with isotopes, (iv) measurements of rates of the reactions under suitably designed condition, (v) the structure of starting and end product etc. Four general classes of reaction are important for a metal complex in a given geometry. These are –

- Substitution: Replacement of one coordinated ligand by another ligand
- Electron transfer: Change in oxidation state of the metal
- Activation of ligand: Attack at a ligand
- Isomerism: Cis-trans and racemisation

Ligand substitution reactions generally occur in three mechanistic ways.

- Associative (A): The entering group binds to the metal before any bond weakening of the leaving group takes place. The reaction profile consists a single intermediate and two transition state.
- Dissociative (D): Leaving group has left before any interaction of the incoming group with metal ion. This reaction profile also consists a single intermediate and two transition state.
$$L_4M-X + Y \longrightarrow L_4M + X + Y \longrightarrow L_4M-Y + X$$
- Interchange (I): The leaving and entering group exchange in a single step by forming an activated complex but not a true intermediate. As the entering group approaches to the metal, the leaving group responds in a concerted manner and progressively leaving the site. The reaction profile consists only one transition state.
$$L_4M-X + Y \longrightarrow L_4M \cdots X \longrightarrow L_4M-Y + X$$

Basudev Mandal/B.SC (H)/Chemistry/VI/ CCT13/ Carboxypeptidase A (CPA)

CARBOXYPEPTIDASE A (CPA)

- Carboxypeptidase A (CPA) is a pancreatic metalloexopeptidase that hydrolyzes the peptide bond adjacent to the C-terminal end of a protein or polypeptide chain. This is in contrast to an aminopeptidase which cleave peptide bonds at the N-terminal of proteins.
- Carboxypeptidase A (CPA) employ a zinc ion within the protein for hydrolysis of the peptide bond at the C-terminal end of an amino acid residue. Loss of the zinc leads to loss of activity, which can be replaced easily by zinc, and also by some other divalent metals (Co, Ni).

1. $A + 0 = A$	7. $A \cdot A = A$	10. $A + AB = A(1 + B) = A \cdot 1 = A$
2. $A + 1 = 1$	8. $A \cdot \bar{A} = 0$	11. $A + \bar{A}B$

5. $A + \bar{A} = 1$	11. $A + \bar{A}B = A + B$	Factoring a out of 2 nd and 3 rd terms
6. $A \cdot \bar{A} = 0$	12. $(A + B)(A + C) = A + BC$	$A + B(\bar{A} + \bar{A})$
		Applying identity $A + \bar{A} = 1$
		$A + B(1)$
		Applying identity $1A = A$
		$A + B$

DEMORGAN'S THEOREMS

One of DeMorgan's theorems is stated as follows:
The complement of a product of variables is equal to the sum of the complements of the variables.
Stated another way:
The complement of two or more ANDed variables is equivalent to the OR of the complements of the individual variables.

DeMorgan's second theorem is stated as follows:
The complement of a sum of variables is equal to the product of the complements of the variables.
Stated another way:
The complement of two or more ORed variables is equivalent to the AND of the complements of the individual variables.

SIMPLIFICATION USING BOOLEAN ALGEBRA

A complicated Boolean expression uses the fewest gates possible to implement a given expression.

Using Boolean algebra techniques, simplify this expression: $AB + AC + (C) + \bar{B}B + C$

$AB + AC + BC + \bar{B}B + AC + B$

Magnetisation vector M:

We have seen that the source of magnetic field is electric current. The circulating electrons in an atom, being tiny current loops, constitute a magnetic dipole with a magnetic moment whose direction depends on the direction in which the electron is moving. An atom as a whole, may or may not have a net magnetic moment depending on the way the moments due to different electronic orbits add up.

In the absence of a magnetic field, the atomic moments in a material are randomly oriented and consequently the net magnetic moment of the material is zero. However, in the presence of a magnetic field, the substance may acquire a net magnetic moment either in the direction of the applied field or in a direction opposite to it. The former class of material is known as paramagnetic material while the latter is called diamagnetic.

PROLIFERATION OF NUCLEAR WEAPONS

Introduction:
Nuclear proliferation is the spread of nuclear weapons, weapons-applicable nuclear technology and information to nations not recognized as "Nuclear Weapon States" by the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons, commonly known as the Non-Proliferation Treaty or NPT.

Thus Nuclear proliferation indicates the spread of nuclear weapons, nuclear weapons technology or material to countries that do not already possess them. The term is also used to refer to the possible acquisition of nuclear weapons by terrorist organizations or other armed groups.

During World War II the prospect of a nuclear-armed Nazi Germany led the United States to intensify its efforts to build a nuclear weapon. The U.S. program, known as the Manhattan Project, produced the first atomic bomb in July 1945. Only three weeks after the first test of an atomic bomb in the U.S. state of New Mexico, a uranium-based atomic bomb was dropped on Hiroshima, Japan; a second, plutonium-based bomb was dropped on Nagasaki three days later.

The United States remained the sole nuclear power until 1949, when the Soviet Union tested its first atomic bomb, code-named First Lightning, in a remote area of Kazakhstan.

Klaus Fuchs, a German-born British physicist who was involved in the Manhattan Project, was later convicted of passing secret information on the theory and design of atomic bombs to the Soviet government.

The intense competition of those two countries during the Cold War led them to develop the more-powerful thermonuclear bomb (also known as the hydrogen bomb, or H-bomb) and to enlarge their stocks of nuclear weapons.

At the height of this competition, the United States and the Soviet Union together possessed many thousands of nuclear warheads, enough to eradicate all life on Earth many times over.

Confronted with the growing prospect of nuclear proliferation, U.S. President Dwight D. Eisenhower launched in 1953 his Atoms for Peace program, which eventually provided non-military nuclear technology to countries that renounced nuclear weapons.

The Adventures of Tom Sawyer as a Bildungsroman

A "Bildungsroman" is a literary genre that focuses on the psychological, moral, and intellectual growth of a protagonist from youth to adulthood (coming of age). The term comes from the German words "Bildung" (education) and "roman" (novel). A "Bildungsroman" relates the growing up or "coming of age" of a sensitive person who goes in search of answers to life's questions with the expectation that these will result in gaining experience of the world. In a "Bildungsroman", the goal is maturity, and the protagonist achieves it gradually and with difficulty. The genre often features a main conflict between the main character and society. Typically, the values of society are gradually accepted by the protagonist and he or she is ultimately accepted into society—the protagonist's mistakes and disappointments are over. In some works, the protagonist is able to reach out and help others after having achieved maturity. Henry Fielding's The History of Tom Jones, a Foundling, Goethe's Wilhelm Meister's Apprenticeship, Charles Dickens's David Copperfield, Charlotte Brontë's Jane Eyre, Rudyard Kipling's Kim, D.H. Lawrence's Sons and Lovers and James Joyce's The Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man, are some notable Bildungsromans. Mark Twain's The Adventures of Tom Sawyer, is a Bildungsroman as the novel beautifully underscores the moral, psychological development of the protagonist Tom.

In the Preface of The Adventures of Tom Sawyer, Mark Twain says: "My book is for boys and girls but I hope that men and women also will read it. I hope that it will help them to remember pleasantly the days when they were boys and girls, and how they felt and thought and talked, what they believed, and what strange things they sometimes did." Twain was right. The Adventures of Tom Sawyer appeals to readers of all ages. Young readers are drawn into Tom's world of antics, excitement and adventures. For older readers, Tom is a type "All American boy" and enjoy reading the humorous and honest accounts of familiar childhood experiences, such as getting in and out of trouble at home and in school, falling in love for the first time, playing imaginative games, undertaking risks and testing independence. Aunt Polly says of Tom:

That boy! I never know what he will do next. And he knows that I do not want to hit him. But I should. And if he does not go to school this afternoon, I must make him work tomorrow. He does not like work. Especially on Saturday, when there is no school, he does not like work. All the other boys will be playing. But I must try to make him a good boy. He is my dead sister's son, and it is my duty. I must do my duty. (Ch. 1)

Tom is the protagonist of the novel. He lives with his aunt Polly at St. Petersburg, Missouri. He is an active young boy who often finds himself involved in mischief and strange adventures. Clever, imaginative, and rebellious, Tom has the ability to outsmart Aunt Polly, most of his friends, and his teachers. Constantly getting into mischief, Tom plays hooky from school and would rather go swimming than tend to his Sunday school lessons. Blessed with an active imagination, Tom dreams to be a noble robber such as Robin Hood or a pirate. Hungry for attention, Tom is obsessed with appearing noble and obtaining the envy of his peers. He is also sensitive to criticism, especially from Aunt Polly and Becky Thatcher, and he shows throughout the book that he is capable of generosity, thoughtfulness, and bravery. Tom often gets into trouble, but he is honest and genuine, standing in direct contrast to his half-brother Sid, whose goodness is an act. Despite the fact that Tom dislikes sitting in school, books are clearly

ACADEMIC WRITING (UNIT 1)

A simple definition of academic writing is hard to come by because it refers to writing done for several reasons. Academic writing is any formal written work produced in an academic setting.
Writing for Education

A broad definition of academic writing is any writing done to fulfill a requirement of a college or university. Academic writing is also used for publications that are read by teacher and researchers or presented at conferences. A very broad definition of academic writing could include any writing assignment given in an academic setting.

Types of academic writing

Academics mostly write texts intended for publication, such as journal articles, reports, books, and chapters in edited collections. For students, the most common types of academic writing assignments are listed below.

Type of academic text	Definition
Essay	A fairly short, self-contained argument, often using sources from a class in response to a question provided by an instructor.
Research paper	A more in-depth investigation based on independent research, often in response to a question chosen by the student.
Thesis/dissertation	The large final research project undertaken at the end of a degree, usually on a topic of the student's choice.
Research proposal	An outline of a potential topic and plan for a future dissertation or research project.
Literature review	A critical synthesis of existing research on a topic, usually written in order to inform the approach of a new piece of research.
Abstract	This is a short summary of a long document.
Explication	This is a work which explains part of a particular work.

Characteristics of Academic Writing

Most academic disciplines employ their own stylistic conventions. However, all academic writing shares certain characteristics.

1. Formal and unbiased
Academic writing aims to convey information in an impartial way. The goal is to base arguments on the evidence under consideration, not the author's preconceptions. All claims should be supported with relevant evidence, not just asserted.

- GPS is a product of Strategic Defense Initiative (SDI) (also known as "Star Wars" of Ronald Regan)
- During the development of the GPS system, the emphasis was placed on the following three aspects:
 - It had to provide users with the capability of determining position, speed and time, whether in motion or at rest.
 - It had to have a continuous, global, all-weather 3-dimensional positioning capability with a high degree of accuracy.
 - It had to offer potential for civilian use.

Acknowledgement

We express our gratitude to the Dept. of Geology, Shahid Matangini Hazra Govt. College for Women for bestowing us the opportunity to undertake the geological field work in and around Bero-Santuri sector in Purulia, West Bengal.

We are indebted Prof. Aparupa Banerjee and Prof. Lovely Barman of our college and Dr. Proloy Ganguly for their valuable guidance, care, and encouragement at every step of the entire course of our field work.

They taught us, cajoled us, scolded us, when we made mistakes, but they always stuck to their guns and never got tired of our endless questions. They taught us to survive through a tough fieldwork and made us realize our own potential and for this, we shall be extremely thankful to them.

CHAPTER 1

INTRODUCTION:

Geological Sciences is extended enough, not to be solely confined inside the classroom. The whole spectrum of this science can be easily understood if field works are mingled up with the class room studies.

We, the students of 3rd semester, had undertaken a fieldwork in and around Raghunathpur-Bero-Santuri sector of Purulia district. It is an excellent region with different Structural features. The field work carried out for 8 days duration from 26th December to 3rd January, 2019.

1.1 LOCATION & ACCESSIBILITY:

Raghunathpur is a city and a municipality in Purulia district in the state of West Bengal, India. It is the headquarters of the Raghunathpur subdivision. Industrial City Raghunathpur is located near Adra on the North-East part of Purulia district. It is connected with other cities through five main way roads, which are Purulia - Barakar road, Raghunathpur-Adra-Hura road, Raghunathpur-Chas road, Chelilyama road and Raghunathpur-Bankura road. The nearest main junction station is Adra Junction railway station.

Raghunathpur is located at 23.55°N 86.67°E. It has an average elevation of 155 m (509 ft). The area forms the lowest step of the Chota Nagpur Plateau. The general scenario is undulating land with scattered hills.

1.2 CLIMATE AND VEGETATION:

Longitudinally the area falls under tropical climate zone. In general the climate of the area is arid. The winter temperature

Mentor Mentee Session II

Sec 3 - Heads - Room: - 2.
Date - 15th Dec 2022 Time: - 1 pm.

This was also the first mentor-mentee session with Sec III heads students. Though we had the orientation programme with them on the 6th of Dec, but in this meeting I explained to them in detail about why we have introduced this mentor-mentee system. I explained to them why the mentor-mentee sessions will be effective for them. The remedial class which is organized, primarily focuses on the academic aspect of the individuals. But in these mentoring sessions we will discuss all other aspects which will actually enable them to perform better in their academics. Though the sec III students have been part of this institution already, I wanted to know from them what are their aspirations after the completion of their course, if they are pursuing any extra-curricular activities, hurdles they face in so doing etc.

In this session, I tried to motivate them to fix a goal for themselves. I also encouraged the bright students in this group to prepare for a productive career option for themselves.

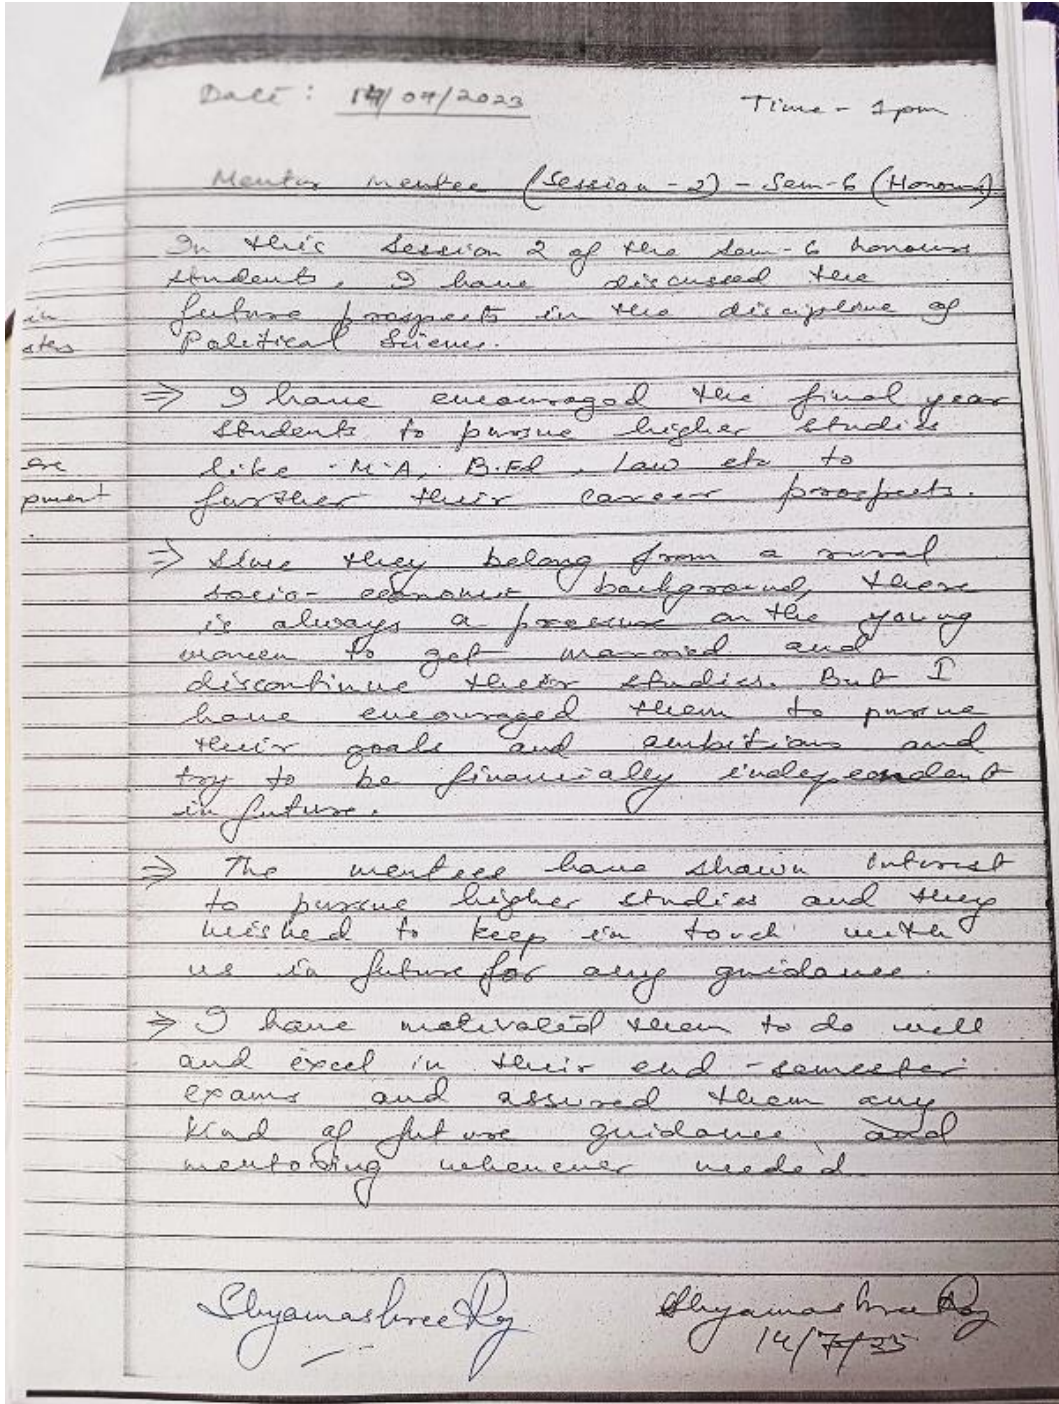

Actually, marrying off these girls at a young age, even before they complete their graduation is a common phenomenon here. I tried to instill in them the confidence that they too are capable of doing a lot of things and they must pursue that.

Academic Session: 2022-23,

First Meeting -

Date: 09/11/2022

Time: 2 PM

Problems identified/discussed with - Purnima Pramanik (1st Semester)

- ⇒ 1) Mostly shy and introvert in class. As teacher/mentor I feel they ^(have Purnima) communicate very less in class. She do not convey any problem regarding her understanding of the matter/lesson I taught in class.
- ⇒ 2) When asked repeatedly about the issue that why she is not communicating properly in class she told that she is facing some issue regarding the medium of learning which is English here. She came from Bengali medium background and now as all the books, study materials are written in English and even scientific terminologies are used in English she faced some difficulties.

Remedies suggested to Purnima Pramanik (1st Sem)

- ⇒ 1) Try to speak out clearly about your problems and difficulties in class. If you feel shy in class you can separately talk to me (your mentor) or any teacher of the department. Everyone here is cordial enough to guide you or solve your problem (study related or others) without misjudging you.
- ⇒ First try to make a practice of taking class notes in English. Firstly you will not be able to write whole thing in English. It is alright. You can take note in mixed medium (English + Bengali). But with time you will get to see your improvement.

4th Meeting

Date → 28/01/2023

Time: 2:00 PM.

Today Purnima and I discussed about her 1st Semester examination i.e. how she performed in exam and how she faced any problem in writing or not. We also discussed about the new semester syllabus and how she can perform better in this ongoing semester. We also are planning to arrange some sessions for students where they will be presenting using Microsoft Power-point. So, I let her know about it.

address

• Poojana Kati's personal problem being solved, it was time to solve her behavioral issue. It's been two months that I have been noticing her. She is very restless in the class. When I am teaching in the class, I can see that she is playing with the pen on the notebook and things fall and so many instances of restlessness.

• Today I asked her why she behaves like that but she doesn't answer. She is extremely introvert too. I warned her that she will be heavily scolded if she does such things in the middle of the class.

• I told Susravi Ghoshai, that she has scored good marks in the 2nd Internal Examination and praised her for her performance so that she feels the confidence to maintain it in the future attempts.

Next meeting date :- 14.03.2023 (for Susravi Ghoshai because she will have her end semester exams in the month of February)
